1. Flight Change Fees

- Airlines set their own rules for changes.

- Chase Travel may charge additional service fees on top of the airline's fee, depending on your card type.
- If you booked with points, some fare differences may apply.

2. Hotel Change Fees

- Refundable bookings can often be changed without a fee, if done within the free cancellation window.
- Non-refundable bookings may require payment of a difference or forfeit the original payment.
- Hotels may also charge no-show or late cancellation fees.

3. Rental Car Changes

- Changes depend on the rental company's policies.
- Early cancellations or modifications may be fee-free, but some suppliers charge a small administrative fee.

4. Vacation Package or Cruise Changes

- Packages often combine flights, hotels, and activities — each may have separate fees for changes.
- Cruise line policies vary and often charge penalties for date changes or cancellations.

Factors Affecting Change Fees

Several factors influence how much it costs to modify your booking:

1. Booking Type: Refundable vs. non-refundable bookings have vastly different rules.
