Thank you very much for everything. I didn't expect such a friendly collaboration at the beginning of my application.

concerns throughout my entire application process. Everytime I called the office, Colin and his staff were all really understanding of my case, knowledgeable of the laws, and patient with all of my questions. I even had the opportunity to visit the office and meet with Colin during my visit to Montreal. Every aspect of my visit there was just as professional in person as over the phone.

I've just been notified that my visa to work in Quebec is now ready. I look forward to my new life in Canada and will always be grateful to CCIRC for all of their help.

Thanks for all the help.

I was specially pleased with how fast the whole process was . It took about 9 months from start to finish (probably some kind of record). It would probably taken less if I had lived in only one country (Background checks).

I will definitely recommend your services to any of my friends who may think or want to resettle to Canada.

You have the Jedda family Seal of Approval for helping making a strenuous journey in the immigration process such an easy piece of cake.

Sincerely ,

With the good advice from the Canadian Citizenship & Immigration Resource Center (CCIRC) Inc. in Montreal, I have successfully got immigration visas (in the category of skilled worker class) from the Canadian Embassy for my family and myself. I submitted my immigration application to CCIRC from Mainland China, and due to the special situation of my family, the process lasted relatively long. However, the immigration lawyers at CCIRC have successfully helped us deal with and tide over various difficult occasions with their timely and effective service.

Both my family and I are very grateful for and satisfied with the excellent work of CCIRC. The lawyers here have devoted to better serving their clients, for their mission is to help applicants successfully get immigration visas. They are always more than happy to answer any questions and address the concerns of their clients. They were also able to offer their clients enough new information, including any change of the immigration policy, in a timely way. And more important, they were able to provide their clients with effective techniques and skills to deal with all kinds of special or even difficult situations during the process, especially with wonderful advice for how to pass interviews. We felt more confident with our application when we had the advice from CCIRC.

With all the best wishes!
